Berini Performance Scheduled Friday Third RVC Concert

Tickets Sold In Campus Buildings

The talented American Tenor, Mario Berini, will sing at R.V.C. on Friday, January 31 in the second concert of the McGill Student Concert Series. The Executive of the Series is proud to afford the students of McGill opportunity of hearing such an outstanding artist in the musical world.

Although a comparatively new star in the musical firmament, Mr. Berini has already established himself in the front rank of the younger artists. Since his New York Debut in May, 1940, in "Faust", he has sung on the coast-to-coast radio networks; appeared in concert in the United States, Canada and Cuba; and has been heard with leading opera companies throughout Mexico and Canada.

The Executive of the Series announced to-night that booths for the sale of tickets will be set up in the Arts, Medical and Engineering (Continued on Page 4)

Students May Help To Compile Directory

Plans for improving the distribution of the Students Directory were made at last night's meeting of the Student Executive Council, who decided that the undergraduates might prepare the lists at the time of registration, in the fall.

At present the burden of compiling the directory is placed on the shoulders of the Administration, and it is felt that the students themselves could more easily accomplish the task. At the same time this would allow the printers more time, and substantially set the date of publication forward.

This year's directory is nearly twice as large as previous ones, which accounts for the increase in price. They are on sale in the Union Tuck Shop for twenty-five cents per copy.

E.D.S. Meets In Eng. Bldg. At 1 Today

The weekly meeting of the Engineering Debating Society is scheduled for today at 1.00 p.m. in Room 37 of the Engineering Building. As usual impromptu speeches will be the order of the day. Starting today, after the completion of his speech, questions may be addressed to the speaker from the floor. This innovation has been made to give all speakers a chance to gain practice in thinking on their feet. Guest critic will be Jim Hemens who is one of McGill's most prominent debaters.

Thursday will see action in the inter-departmental debates, when the Mechanicals meet the Civils in the semi-finals. The topic will be "Resolved that a young engineer should take a job which provides experience rather than a large salary."

Eliminations are now being run by the E.D.S. to determine which 2 students will represent McGill on students' night at the Engineering Institute. Two McGill engineers are to read essays on a technical subject, probably based on their summer essays. The E.D.S. has put up prizes of $10 and $5 plus (Continued on Page 4)

Women Debaters Plan Discussion Group

With the belief that there are on the campus many coeds who would welcome an opportunity to express their views, the Women's Debating Union is instituting a series of informal discussion groups. These discussions will be held every Thursday in the pleasant atmosphere of the R.V.C. Common Room from five to six p.m. These hours are of course subject to change in view of the varying schedules of those wishing to attend.

The topics for discussion will be chosen by the students themselves and will range from the serious to the comic dependent upon the tastes of the coeds.

The first meeting will be held this Thursday at five p.m. All women students are cordially invited.

Film Society To Feature 'Devil's Island'

This afternoon at 5 p.m. in Room 250 of the Biology Building the Film Society will present a film entitled "Devil's Island and Martinique." It will be shown again at 8 p.m. together with "Cypress is an Island." Coffee will be served at the evening program during an intermission between films.

"Devil's Island," in technicolor, is the story of the notorious French penal colony and includes an interesting and colorful commentary on the island of Martinique. This film is being brought here by the Film Society at a rental price of $50.00, and although not filmed by the same cameraman, is released by the same company, Adventure Films, Inc., that produced "Java-Ball Report." The details of a convict's life on the infamous island, which has since been abolished as a penal institution by a French Government decree, are laid bare in this film. In sharp contrast, there are many beautiful shots of the colorful and exotic island of Martinique. The film is one hour in length.

By special request of the Graduate's Society the film "Cypress is an Island" will be shown, together with the feature picture, on the evening program. It depicts the many phases of the existence of the Island of Cypress with emphasis on its strategic importance.

The evening program affords a special opportunity to graduates to participate in Film Society activities as well as those students who, for various reasons, are unable to attend the afternoon showings.

U of A Grads Fete in Ottawa

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—(CUP)—One hundred graduates of the University of Alberta attended a dinner meeting in Ottawa Friday, January 24 to pay tribute to Dr. H. M. Tory, founder and first president of the university, and to form the Ottawa Chapter of the university Alumnae Association.

Dr. George S. Field, National Research Council physicist and staff member of Carleton College, Ottawa, of which Dr. Tory is founder and president, outlined the impressive achievements of Alberta's founder, who was unable to attend owing to illness. Dr. Field spoke of "the dogged perseverance which characterized Dr. Tory's life" and invited the graduates to drink a toast "to our founder, first president and a very great Canadian."

J. M. Manson, chairman of the inaugural meeting, welcomed the graduates who represented classes from 1915 to 1946 and announced the founding by the Alumnae Association of a scholarship at Alberta for children of servicemen who were killed in World War II. The chairman read a letter from Dr. Robert Newton, president of the University of Alberta, in which he paid tribute to Dr. Tory.

Council Appoints New Editor for Handbook

Paul Betts, sports editor of "Old McGill," and member of the Scarlet Key Society, was appointed last night as the next editor of the Handbook, bible to erstwhile McGill freshmen.

Taking over from Gus Summerskill who edited last year's handbook, Betts expects that few radical departures will be made to the format. He will welcome all suggestions and criticisms which may be made by undergraduates, and himself hopes to improve on the cover.

The Handbook will be compiled during the summer months so as to be ready for the fall reception of freshmen to the campus.

I.V.C.F.

Miss Lamport of the Zenana Bible and Medical Mission of India will address a missionary meeting at Student House, 3445 Peel Street on Tuesday, January 28th at 5.00 p.m.

At luncheon on Thursday the Reverend Stanley Stock, pastor of Madison Baptist Church will be the speaker. 7

50 Students Visit Holland

Under the sponsorship of the International Student Service, fifty Varsity students have been invited to the Netherlands for a visit next summer. The invitation was extended by Barend Bangma, a medical student and a member of the Netherlands ISS, who visited the Varsity campus last summer.

Students will be selected by Varsity for a three months stay. They will spend the first two months in Amsterdam and the last month in the country. The purpose of their visit is to give the students the present political aspect in Holland. They will receive informal lectures on various subjects relative to this purpose but there will be no formal instruction. Details of the plans are still incomplete.

Members of the Varsity campus have been chosen because Varsity is the only Canadian university with an ISS committee. They are now holding a campaign to raise $13,749 for the students in Europe and Asia.

Viva La Fiesta!

"Fiesta" Rehearsals Start Feb. 1 Hold Skit, Cover Design Contest

Described by its producer as "the only Spanish variety show in Canada," the "Fiesta of 1947" will go into rehearsals February 1. Included on this program will be entertainment from the Old World and the New, Mexican costume dances mingling with traditional songs from Old Spain. The main feature of the "Fiesta" will be the two act Spanish Comedy "La Puebla de Las Mujeres" by Hermanos Alvarez Quintero. A prize of ten dollars will go to the author of the best original skit for the Fiesta, and five dollars to the student submitting the best cover design for the program. Entries must be in by Feb. 10 and may be left with George at the Union Tuckshop. The Fiesta has also announced that a 10 per cent. commission will be given for advertisements sold, salesmen to get in touch with producer Leon Davicho at EX. 2633 before Feb. 2. A cast of Spanish speaking students from many countries has been assembled for this production.

Luisa Leon of Venezuela will lead the singing group, Ana Cobial of Spain the Costume Dance, Eva Dollfuss of Austria will play the old lady, Santita, Jean Bolle of Haiti Pepe Lora (jealous villager), Cicely Ambridge of Canada (village beauty Juanita La Rosa), and many others. Toronto, MIT, Send Teams

By D. S.

On Saturday, February 1, McGill's second Athletics Night will take place at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium, commencing at 8 p.m.

In all, six of the College's senior teams will be seen in action, against outstanding opponents from Canadian and American universities.

Probably never in her history has McGill staged such sporting extravaganzas as the Athletics Nights planned for this year, and the first of these, which took place on December 7, was enthusiastically received both by students and those outside the University.

Graduates were particularly impressed with the events, and it has been popularly felt that the Athletics Nights are the best advertisement possible, for the Rink - Auditorium Campaign presently under way.

LARGE ATTENDANCE
It is of interest to note too that whereas the Athletics Nights have been copied from a similar function at the University of Toronto, the original attendance in Montreal was more than double the largest number of students ever to attend at Hart House. Complete organization for the Athletics Nights has been in the hands of undergraduates, and it is estimated that almost two hundred of the University's students work on the committee.

INTERCOLLEGIATE MATCH
Saturday's program has scheduled the University of Toronto basketball team to face the McGill quintet, in the first intercollegiate match of the year.

At the same time, the Red and White gymnasts will be in competition against Trinity College School from Port Hope, Ontario, a prep school with a sensational record in gym work, being rated the outstanding school gym team in Canada, annually since 1925.

The squash courts will bring together the powerful M.I.T. team from Boston, and the McGill squad, who led by Pete Landry, the Provincial champion, have proven themselves one of the outstanding college squash clubs on the Continent.

WORLD EVENTS

Ottawa: There has been a further postponement of Canada's representations to the Council of Deputy Foreign Ministers with regard to Austrian and German peace treaties. Canada was first supposed to have given her views on Saturday but her hearing is still being postponed.

Ottawa: Premier King announced today that the Government intends to repeal the Chinese Immigration Act which has drastically limited the number of Chinese allowed into Canada.

London: The Burma Independence talks between Burmese leaders and the British Government ended with a midnight consultation between Premier Attlee and Burmese representatives. It was expected that an agreement would be signed early today. With the two Burmese leaders still dissenting on important points.

Jerusalem: 90,000 Palestine Jews have been placed under house arrest as a result of the kidnapping of two Britons and the hanging of an alleged Jewish underground terrorist has been postponed.

NOTICE
Are you tired of college life? Are you fed up with lectures? Do you want to get away from it all? Do you? A solution has been found to your problem. Enjoy yourself for an evening. You don't have to enjoy yourself all week, but one evening won't hurt you. You can do this by attending one performance of the Red and White Revue, not all of them; just one is enough to make you enjoyable. Tickets are needed to gain admittance to this all-student show, and are available at the Union.

Duplessis Vs. Labor Viewed By M. Parent

"Quebec Labour Faces Duplessis" was the subject treated by Madeleine Parent, organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, at an open meeting of the Student Labour Club held yesterday afternoon.

Miss Parent, who is a McGill graduate, recalled various speakers she had heard as a student, and pointed out that frequently students do not have the experience to form an adequate opinion. She said that she did not wish to force her opinions on anyone, but asked that her audience "listen reflectively."

Miss Parent mentioned the Jehovah Witness protest at McGill with approval, and went on to say that Duplessis has an even greater disregard for the rights of labour than he has for religious freedom. She charged that Duplessis makes false accusations on those who try to help the worker. The Premier's cry of "autonomy for the province" is heard above the cry of freedom for the people.

The speaker referred to the unfavorable publicity given by the press to such strikes as the one she led in Valleyfield. The press has presented the public with the idea that strikes are the result of foreign agitators, and that labour is impetuous and unreasonable.

Miss Parent spent most of her talk on the manifold difficulties placed in the way of unions, and the outright support given management, as in the textile strike, by the government. She went into the background of the Valleyfield strike, and reported the strike itself in great detail.

Revue Travels Dawson Circuit Wed; Opens at McGill Feb. 4

Several acts from the Red and White Revue will travel out to Dawson College on Wednesday night to give the St. John's students a special preview of the show.

This preview will feature the Revue chorus, who are now trained in their routines, and should give the audience something to yell about. The models from the fashion show will also be on hand to strut their stuff, and all of them really have the stuff to strut.

Bill Russel and his quartette will also put in an appearance, together with Anne Fleming, the popular vocalist featured in the Revue.

Interviews with Revue personalities will continue over CJAD's "Midnight Express" with Ted Root this week. They will give a few details, not too many, about the show on the Dawson Car.

Tickets for "Dawson Night" are on sale at Dawson College through Jack Wale, Keith Wedderspoon, and Bob Bower. This performance, that of Friday, February 7, has been specially reserved for St. John's students, and whatever tickets are left over will be sold on the Montreal campus.

There are still seats available in the McGill Union for all performances, especially the shows on Tuesday and Thursday. Those wishing to obtain tickets are urged to do so soon while some choice seats remain.

The Revue will open in Moyse Hall one week from today, on Tuesday, February 4, and will run

Civil Engineers Film Nite at 8

"A Harbor Goes To France," graphic record of the famous Operation Mulberry, in which an entire harbor and docking facilities were pre-fabricated in England and towed to Le Havre, will be the featured presentation of the Civil Engineering Society's "Film Nite," to-night, at 8 p.m. in the Physics Building auditorium.

On the same program will be shown several short films depicting famous bridge disasters, such as the catastrophe at Tacoma Narrows, and the mishap of the Honey-moon Bridge, at Niagara Falls. Also will be given a short of the manufacture of cable strands for the Lions Gate Suspension Bridge over the First Narrows at Vancouver Harbor.

The Montreal-Portland pipe-line construction film which was to be presented also could not be obtained in time for the showing, and as a substitute, Mr. Massow, of the Shawinigan Falls, Co., will give an illustrated talk on the economic developments and use of electricity in Eastern Canada.

Fossilized Hearts

When the McGill University Student Subscription Concert series was inaugurated in 1945 by the Students' Executive Council McGill became the leader in extra-curricular cultural achievements. We could point with pride to our university knowing that our music series compared measurably with the best Montréal could offer.

Montreal is without doubt recognized as the music centre of Canada her audiences responding enthusiastically to the many fine artists that performed here. Decidedly, Montrealers have the most appreciative and sympathetic feeling towards this common meeting ground of mankind, perhaps the greatest gift the geniuses of the world have willed to us.

Yet, lately it is with alarm that we have listened to the Toronto and Vancouver Symphony Orchestras. The reception given to visiting soloists and conductors has overwhelmed them. It is with alarm because we do not note a corresponding zeal amongst the students of this campus.

It would seem as if McGill students have become hardened to the great pleasure music offers. Only a little over a year old, the Concert Series has not received the response from the students of which the series is worthy. Indeed, our ears must be full of wax and our hearts must be fossilized not to be moved by the glories of Beethoven or the sheer simplicity of Schubert and others wonders of the master-musicians.

The concert committee has tried to satisfy even the most selective of music admirers on the campus. The artists chosen for this year's series are well-known young performers, infrequent visitors to Canada. This is in opposition to the usual practice of Montreal's impresarios, who bring back old established artists constantly. The result of such a selection, the committee feels, will be a more varied program.

The privilege of having a concert series sponsored mainly for their benefit is one for which McGill students should be very grateful. However, they must realize that if this privilege is to be continued, they must show their gratitude through their complete support of the series.—T.E.B.

Applied Science Simp's Simple Story

Arnold Simp, a former Physics 4(b) student easily identifiable by the dark ellipsoids under his eyes, is walking past a building under construction, (for a touch of dramatic irony calculated to wrench your heart out, we'll make it the Engineering Building). As Simp passes, his eye falls on a carpenter standing on a ladder. This miserable carpenter has been standing on his ladder for months, at $1.25 an hour, his hammer upraised, waiting for somebody to bring him a nail. Suddenly an ugly glint comes into Simp's eyes. Whipping his slide rule from its scabbard, and basing his calculations on the length of the shadow cast by Colonel Shrum nearby, he reckons that the carpenter is exactly 20 feet up the ladder. Through his bare feet he senses that the coefficient of friction is .6. The glint becomes a fanatical gleam, as he sidles towards the unsuspecting ladder, the foot of which he observes to be precisely 10 feet away from a smooth, vertical wall.

Yes, yet, this is it, the very situation described in the problem. Only one item is missing from the data. Simp slides behind the ladder and calls up to the dozing carpenter:

"Hey, there. How much do you weight, old man?" "One hundred and fifty pounds," replies the carpenter.

"Perfect," screams Simp, and quickly with his knee, he applies the correct force to the foot of the ladder . . .

Best draw the curtain on the rest of this sombre episode. Leave the strangely twisted form lying on the ground. Ignore the dark figure scuttling away with shrieks of crazy laughter. In the cause of science a carpenter has died before he has lived, without ever knowing the exquisite head, the thrilling roundness, of a new nail.

Le Bilinguisme

by Guy Duverger

Voici la première d'une série d'articles en français par quelques étudiants de McGill. Nous espérons que ces articles seront d'intérêt à ceux qui prennent les cours de français et aussi à nos amis canadiens-français qui font leurs études avec nous à McGill. Nous voulons avoir les réactions de nos lecteurs.

Tres souvent l'on discute d'un sujet, lequel dans le passé fut la cause de plusieurs controverses, de bien des malentendus de la part de certains gens à l'esprit plutôt rétreint, sujet ma foi qui fut l'objet de disputes facheuses, même au parlement; "le bilinguisme". Je me souviens que lors d'une dernière session par exemple, deux de nos représentants se disputèrent pendant plusieurs minutes, sur le fait que l'on devrait s'exprimer en anglais plutôt qu'en français et vice-versa.

Et combien de fois ne rencontrons-nous pas sur la rue ou dans les grands magasins une personne à l'air maussade ou choquée parce qu'elle n'a pu obtenir ce qu'elle désirait, non à cause du manque de matériel ou encore moins à défaut d'argent, mais bien au fait que l'interprète ne se trouvait pas sur les lieux et elle dut s'en retourner bredouille.

Fait curieux à noter cette même personne racontera son aventure chez le voisin, et tout en maugréant contribuera à accroître une animosité parmi son entourage et les siens, contre ceux qui sont d'origine autre que la sienne, en répétant de sa propre manière ce qu'elle n'a pas compris et que sais-je.

Que d'exemples et de faits nous pourrions citer sur cette question, laquelle semble pour plusieurs un problème épineux.

Aujourd'hui en nos écoles secondaires, et heureusement, l'on attache plus d'importance que jamais à l'étude de l'anglais en démontrant clairement que pour l'entendre il faut tout d'abord se comprendre.

Tous ceux qui durant le dernier conflit ont fait parti des forces armées, tous ceux qui voyagèrent le moins le moins peuvent facilement conclure combien il vaut mieux s'exprimer par des mots plutôt que par des gestes.

Rares sont ceux qui étant cantonnés dans des endroits où la langue maternelle ne se parlait pas, ne firent point d'efforts pour apprendre un langage d'un voisin peut-être indifférent et incommode par la gêne au premier abord, mais combien aimable et affable après connaissance.

Le problème chez-nous je crois consiste en ce que trop peu de gens soient capables de s'exprimer d'une façon convenable en les deux langues. D'après le dernier recensement il est rapporté que seulement 1,474,000 personnes sur un total d'environ onze millions et demies parlent couramment et pour un pays reconnu comme étant bilingue il est à souhaiter et espérons que cette proportions s'accroisse constamment.

Il nous sera plus facile alors de s'entre-aider plus facilement et de reconnaître avec plus de justice ce que l'un peut faire pour l'autre, plutôt que de passer des réflexions ne conduisant à rien sinon d'aggraver la situation.

Thursday, Jan. 30, 5:30 p.m., is the new deadline in Ashley and Caron's contest. All you have to do to win the valuable prize (an original, hitherto unpublished MMS, "Terse Verse", illuminated by the Calligrapher Royal, Sir Lee Kynn Waterman, and suitable for framing) is to complete the following in twenty-five (25) words or less: "My digestion has improved since I stopped reading Norm 'n Jack because . . ."

The deadline has been extended to accommodate those who, due to term papers, were unable to enter the contest before. This was considered advisable because of the large number of entries so far received.

All entries should be addressed to "Ashley and Aron, Union Truck Shop."

'God of Creation' To Be Shown Here

A film entitled "God of Creation" has been widely shown in Montreal during the last few weeks. It is of interest on several accounts. Basically it is an attempt to show, through a photographic observation of the solar system, plant and insect life, the wonders of God's universe. With the aid of remarkable camera technique the film uncovers, in brilliant color, minute details of astronomy, botany and bacteriology.

Some highlights were the telescopic views of the stars, the growth of the bean from the seed to maturity and the development of the caterpillar into a butterfly, particularly the scene showing the actual emergence of the adult insect.

Technical skill is evident in the picture throughout. A prelude shows the laboratories of the Moody Science Institute in Los Angeles where the film was prepared. Views of complicated scientific apparatus show the highly-specialized techniques needed in the motion picture industry of today. Skill and patience are required to show, on a few feet of film, the development of flowers from bud to full blossom.

"God of Creation" will be shown at McGill on Wednesday, January 29th at 5 p.m. in Room 102 of the Chemistry Building. Its showing is being sponsored here by the S.C.M. and the I.V.C.F. There is no admission charge.

MUSIC NOTES

—Malczuzynski

A special Chopin group will be included in his program by Witold Malczuzynski, celebrated Polish pianist, who is giving a recital at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium on Thursday evening, January 30. The event is being offered by Canadian Concerts and Artists as part of their current concert series this season.

Mr. Malczuzynski has made himself specially famous on this continent as a Chopin interpreter since he made his North American debut in Carnegie Hall, New York, more than four years ago. He enjoys the unique privilege of being both Polish and pupil of one of the greatest of all Polish pianists, the late Ignace Jan Paderewski with whom he lived and studied at the latter's villa in Switzerland.

The whole Chopin repertoire was studied with Paderewski by the young pianist during that eventful period. Mr. Malczuzynski was also privileged to be with the master, when Paderewski was preparing his monumental edition of Chopin's complete works, the publication of which has been delayed due to the war and the over-running of Poland by the Germans.

For his program here Mr. Malczuzynski has chosen the great Scherzo in C sharp minor, three Etudes, including the popular Black Key Study and one of the waltzes. To this he is expected to add other items as encores.

The program will also contain Liszt's monumental Sonata in B minor with which the pianist created a considerable impression in a recital he gave here some seasons ago. He opens with Bach's Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue and will offer as well two works by his fellow-countryman, Karel Szymanowski, three Mazurkas and a Theme varie.

Six thousand student refugees in Pao-chi, China, living in caves and sleeping on mud floors, were recently supplied with 1,500 blankets by International Student Service at a cost of 7,500,000 Chinese dollars.

"... a delicate, haunting shade, filled with the fragile breath of springtime and love's young dream"—Advt.

(We refuse to apologize to Alfred Noyes)

We were sickened to the hearts of us and shocked beyond belief

When we read an ad the other day.

Our minds were melancholy and our souls were filled with grief

And we really felt obliged to say:

"Oh these ads for new cosmetics make us wish we'd ne'er been born Or wish at least we'd never learned to read.

These illustrations Dallesque that ape 'September Morn'

Oh curse the perpetrators of this deed!"

Yea, here our muse poetic sighed

Another, sadder song.

And here our sense aesthetic cried

A tale of deeper wrong.

The ad for Infra-Lilac shrieked

Its message at the eye.

A pallid stick of purple paste,

In praise of this they cry:

"Smear on our goo in lilac time, in lilac time, in lilac time,

Smear on our goo in lilac time. (It's made by Jaques of London)

It phosphoresces in the dark, it's swell for kissing in the park.

Smear on our goo in lilac time. (It's quite the rage in London)

"This newest shade is so divine, it's too divine, it should be thine!

The flavour's that of brandywine. (And all the way from London)

To be without it is a crime, an awful crime, a dreadful crime,

A sort of Jack-the-Ripper crime. (Le dernier cri de London)

So it's "Advertiser, advertiser,

What have you to say?"

If it has seductiveness

Then it's bound to pay.

All around the page's edge

You put a wreath of cupids.

(If lithographed in lavender

It makes the copy gay.)

If anyone should ask you

The reason that they buy it is

They want love, they need love,

And Freud must have his way.

Each woman has the notion

This new revolting shade

Will bring a man's devotion

To every love-lorn maid.

It is a false impression

But still cosmetics sell.

We hope all those responsible

Will fry for years in Hell.

Heap on the flames in lilac time, in lilac time, in lilac time.

Heap on the flames in lilac time, on Monsieur Jaques of London!

And heap them also on the crew that made this goo, and sold it too.

"That burning sulfur shade is new, it sure would sell in London!"

YMHA Invades St. Johns For Crucial Contest

Dawson Primed for Unbeaten Visitors in MBL Tilt Tomorrow

Dawson College's Senior Montreal Basketball League championship hopes will be resting on tomorrow evening's encounter with the league-leading Y.M.H.A. quintet, at the Orlick Gym, "and don't be surprised if we should cop the laurels" is Dawson mentor Goldbloom's outlook on the game. This contest will feature a doubleheader that will see the Inters tangle with the University of Montreal in the opener. Also on the tab for the gala evening, one of a series of Dawson Athletic Nights is a preview of the Red and White Review, which will be presented between games.

Leading Moe Abramowitz' loop leaders into action on the St. Johns hardwood will be high scorer Doodie Bloomfield, rated by many as the best player in Montreal today, while the Blues will also feature such figures as ex-McGillians Dave Greenberg, lapky Murray Waxman, Joey Richman, and Ben Lands. The Y-aggregation has yet to taste defeat in league play, and exhibition victories include such victims as the House of David and Toronto "Y".

GOLDBLOOM HOPEFUL

Mentor Goldbloom, however, has high hopes of upsetting the Abramowitz' loop, and he will lead a crew, fresh from two victories in the past week over Budds and Clarkson College. "I've been waiting for our men to hit their top stride all season, and I think that they are nearing their best shape at this point," reports the Dawson. Backing up Goldbloom's threats are Vernon and Kenny Taylor who have accounted for sixty points in their last two engagements and Johnny Gearey, fast-moving playmaker. Also appearing in the St. Johns outfit's lineup will be the rapidly-improving "Red" Somers, newcomer Phil Weissberg, Doug Jonas, Bobby Forand, and Sammy Evans. The encounter tomorrow evening is being billed as "the game of the year", and who knows what fate holds in store for the as yet unbeaten Y-crew.

Tireless Taylor

KEN TAYLOR has been one of the reasons why Dawson is where it is in the MBL, having scored 59 points, only 6 less than top scorer in the league Murray Waxman.

First Round Matches Played in Ping Pong

Although there has been considerable action this past week it seems that there are still quite a number of games in the first round to be played off. It is not intended that the first round should hold up the rest of the tournament, therefore second round play will commence immediately and by the end of the current week if any first round matches are holding up second round play those players responsible will be eliminated.

The following is a list of first round matches to be played. You'd better get cracking or you'll find yourself O-U-T... that's short for eliminated.

Class Sports In Full Swing; Interest High

With the intra-mural sports program enjoying a fuller measure of participation than ever before, the latest figures in the combined Point score give Arts and Science a slim lead over the Physical Education Department, 187 to 164. Engineering has 136, while Med, Commerce, Dentistry, Law and Grads range from 99.5 to 5. These scores are computed on the basis of competition in track, softball and swimming, while play is now in full swing in all other phases of activity outdoors and in the gym.

WEATHER BAD

Hockey seems set for a big season if only the weather would cooperate. The Interfaculty League has already begun, with play scheduled to begin this week in the Inter-class League. Teams are still lacking, however, from the three upper years of Commerce 'from Med. I, and Engineering 2 and 3. Managers are requested to phone Mr. Finlay at PL. 4488 or Jim Morrison at LA. 0843, and the deadline for entries is Thursday at the cocktail hour (5 p.m., you Engineers). The first games are set for that same day with Phys. Ed. 3 playing Eng. 4 at five o'clock, and Phys. Ed. 2 meeting Grads at six.

BASKETBALL PLAY

In today's Basketball play, Com. 2a defeated Phys. Ed. 1, 24-16, with Newton getting 11 points for the winners, while Med. 3 swamped Com. 3 34-17, with Sharkey high scorer. Despite the power displayed by these winners, many observers rate the Arts 4 squad as the (Continued on Page 4)

McGill, Dawson Cagers Combat Sir George, U. of M. Tomorrow

Local Hoopsters Seek Playoff Spot

Tomorrow evening in an accompanying bout to the Senior Dawson - Y.M.H.A. contest, Doc Jim Holmes' Intermediates will take the floor in stiff battle with the top-notch University of Montreal team. This doubleheader will present the stiffest opposition that either team has yet faced this year. The Y has so far knocked out all opposition, not losing one scheduled game to date, while the U. of M. boys are now also resting in the driver's seat after a long-standing tie was broken last week by the MacDonald loss to Georgians.

IMPORTANT GAME

However the Blue and Red Dawson Intermediates are not the least daunted and expect to give the league-leaders quite a tussle. In a previous contest held at Sir Arthur Currie Gym on November 20 the boys from the top of the hill managed to eke out a 34-29 victory over a fighting St. Johns' aggregation. On their own floor and after intensive training and switching of players the Holmes' boys shape up as quite a threat, and statements from those in the know say that this loss may well be avenged tonight. That victory over Georgians last week by our lads showed one of the gamest and hardest battling teams we have seen around for quite a while. Although they lost to the Westmount 'Y' team on Saturday night here at Dawson, this cannot be taken as any definite indication of their ability as they were playing several men short.

According to team manager Cy Berlin, popular wing 'Tig' Chaloner will probably be missing from the lineup tomorrow night because of a leg injury suffered in Saturday's game. Beside Chaloner's injury, the Blue and Red squad is in tip top shape and may well shift ahead of its fourth place position by a victory Wednesday night.

Godel, McKinnon Return to Lineup

Tomorrow night the McGill Intermediate cage squad will once again swing into action when they encounter Georgians in a regular league game at the Currie gymnasium.

A victory for the Redmen will lift them into a second place tie with MacDonald College, a position which may be shared by Dawson if they can defeat the U. of M. quintet in their tilt on the same night.

ELO AND BEAUGRAND

All of McGill's top players will be on hand tomorrow, and with such men as Tommy ELO, Bob Beauprand, and Harry Dikofsky on the floor, the Redmen will be a tough nut for the lowly Georgians to crack. ELO has been going great guns for his team of late, and the chunky forward who has a penchant for potting the long shots, will be backing up his mates in no uncertain fashion. Another high liner for the McGill outfit is stary Sammy Evans. This lad is a hustler of the first order who can be depended upon to use his speed to the best advantage. In fact the whole team will be out for (metaphorically speaking) blood in this fray, and such an important title is bound to see plenty of action.

FACE ELIMINATION

The Georgians, on the other hand are currently at the bottom of the league, and in the face of possible elimination are sure to be fighting all the way. Their top men are Sammy Kis and Bob McIntosh, both of whom are very dangerous on the floor. Last year, with the aid of the Taylor brothers, who, incidentally are starring for Dawson seniors this year, the Sir George aggregation managed to cop the Intermediate Provincial championship, but so far this year their play has not been up to par, and in their last meeting with the Redmen they were downed by a 39-34 count.

Georgian 2nds Face Red Ice Six Tomorrow

The Intermediate Hockey team, wearing the Red Martlets of McGill, will be out to get back on a winning track tomorrow night, when they play host to a Georgian sextet at the McTavish Rink weather permitting. The Sir George Williams squad are an unknown quantity as they have yet to taste action in the newly formed league.

On the other hand, the Redmen, rated the team to beat, before a Dawson six upset their apocryphal last week, are known to be a powerful crew with strength and depth in every department. Coach Ross Hutchings has been forced to cancel practices of late due to inclement weather, but has been holding workouts at the Verdun Auditorium to sharpen up the team's scoring eyes.

Floor Hockey Nearing Finale At St. Johns

By J. E. GRIFFIN.

The Floor Hockey season at Dawson is gradually coming to a close, and only three teams remain in the running for the Championship. Tonight, at 7.30, the Bearcats and Moyse Boys tangle in the first of the semi-final series. It's a two-out-of-three game affair, and promises plenty of action and thrills for the large crowd that is expected to attend.

FLYING-FRENCHMEN FLYING

The Flying Frenchmen go in to the semi-finals with a pretty formidable record, having scored 25 goals in four playoff games so far. They boast of such stars as Fred Hoare, Elwood Wixson and Andre Bedard on the forward lines, and Fern Paquette on defence.

Moyse Boys, on the other hand, feature consistent goal-keeping by George Koliv, a bruising defence of Miro Boddich and Bob Pergey, and a speedy forward in the person of George Rathwell. As far as scoring is concerned, Fred Hoare of Bearcats is leading the parade with 6 goals, Wixson has 5, while (Continued on Page 4)

Graziano Is Offered $100,000 in Bout Fix

Last night, New York Attorney, Frank Hogan, revealed a bribery attempt made to 'Rocky' Graziano by a gambling group, involving Alvin Paris convicted last month of trying to 'fix' the New York-Chicago pro football title game in December, to throw his scheduled December fight with 'Cowboy' Reuben Shank.

Graziano has repeated his admission about the $100,000 bribe offer to Ed Egan, N.Y. State Athletic chairman and will appear for a preliminary hearing this Friday. The top - ranking middleweight, with dynamite in his fists, backed out of the match, after promising to consider the offer, on the excuse of a back injury, rather than "double cross" the gamblers in event of his winning the bout.

By CONNIE SHATNER

'A further report has been submitted to the Principal.' These few words emanating from the Football Probe Committee yesterday afternoon spoke reams and speculation was rife once more as to who would guide McGill's destinies in the coming year.

Over the week-end word had been received that numerous candidates had been narrowed down to a mere five. The head of the list was Vic Sheek and according to Whizzer Smith, in his interview over the McGill Speaks show, the New York flash is the 'man we want.'

Men To Play Doubles Tilts In Badminton

Currie Gymnasium will be available for mixed Badminton, as usual, this evening from 7:00 p.m. on. There will be no Badminton on Thursday or Saturday evenings of this week as the gym will be used for the Malczukski concert and the Athletics Night.

FRIDAY MATCHES

The gym has been obtained for Friday night and it is planned to hold a Men's Doubles Round Robin tournament, with all the courts being utilized for this event.

Entries may be made either this evening (Tuesday) or on Friday night from 7.30 to 8.00 o'clock. There will be no entry fee for this tournament and the winning combination will receive one dozen badminton birds. It will not be necessary to have a partner in order to enter—single names will also be accepted and partners provided. In this tournament each doubles team will play one game (15 point games with no extra points) with every team entered and the combination with the best total point score at the end of the evening will be declared winner.

Ineligible To Play.

The following men players will be ineligible to enter this tournament because of participation in Intercollegiate or Murray League activity: R. Dussault, G. Macfarlane, J. Dixon, A. Townson, J. Stubbs, L. McKeown, H. Fleming, R. Geddes, T. Fisher, R. Renwick, B. Love, L. Payette. All other male badminton players at McGill are invited to join the battle. A mixed doubles tournament on the same lines will be run off in the near future.

In addition, demonstrations are planned in fencing and badminton, the latter to feature Doug Grant, former world's champion, and members of McGill's badminton team.

Arrangements for the dancing which is to commence on completion of the sports, have been on the most elaborate scale, three dance bands having been engaged for the occasion.

Bands will be in attendance in both the boxing and basketball gyms, whilst the third band will be in the Officer's Mess where the graduates will be entertained.

AN OUTLINE OF HYSTERIA

For the benefit of those who have often looked longingly at H. G. Wells' novella, "Outline of History" with a thought that some day they would read it, I have decided to condense the matter into bite size. I have taken the liberty of correcting a few of Mr. Wells' spelling mistakes and errors in grammar, and at times advance a few theories of my own, since Mr. Wells is occasionally just being silly, but you will see that the gist of the thing is here.

Now it seems, that the earliest people living on earth were not really people at all; in fact I doubt if they were even living. At any rate, these organisms were "made up" of only one cell, and multiplied themselves by a process known as "fission", in which one little cell divided itself into two little cells, and two little cells divided into four little cells, and so on. Then they presumably played bridge until by and by the party got overcrowded, and they all went home in a huff with someone else's overcoat.

But soon these little cells, or amoebae as we experts know them, got wise to themselves and realized that this fission process wasn't much fun after all. So, after a few million years of thinking about it and comparing notes, they finally raised enough energy to whip themselves into a kind of mammal. Of course, they had to do this in stages, and several types never did get to be any better than fish, spineless ones, at that, but considering they had not preceded to go by, they did pretty well. We haven't been able to do much since in the way of advancement.

The first stage in the evolution of the species, naturally was a sort of crawling animal who tried to disguise himself as a lobster so the other little amoebae wouldn't recognize him; but of course they did. Then, by and by, they noticed that he was having an awful lot of fun crawling around up there on the beach, building sand castles, and after a few thousand years of concerted effort, they had enough lobsters and crabs and trilobites to start a small war. This has been known in history as the Battle of the Sexes, and the race for supremacy has since settled down to neck and neck.

After a century or two of conflict, the trilobites, or perhaps it was the lobsters, I'm not quite sure which, discovered they weren't doing so well; in fact they were getting swamped with thousands and thousands of crabs. As one of them expressed it, "You couldn't go outdoors without having several of the things pawing at you." Soon these trilobites decided to try this running business everyone had been talking about, and before the others knew it they were carrying off all the Steeplechases and Cross-country races in sight.

You can see how nature has taken care of her children. But other hardships followed. For after running and flying had been in vogue for what seemed an eon, it suddenly (within a thousand years) got very cold, and all the females of the era got after their husbands for mink coats.

And so it went. One thing led to another, until by and by these little amoebae were horrified to discover that they had become men and women. And they've been so worried about the whole affair they haven't done anything since.

And neither have I. You'll just have to finish the rest of the book yourself.

EDUCATION IN REVIEW

With the opening of the spring school graduates are once again discovering that it is extremely difficult to find a college or university with available space. Indications are that the record boom will continue during the coming year and probably until the end of this decade.

However, difficult as it is for the veteran or the male student to enter college, it is doubly so in the case of the women. Thousands of adequately prepared women students were unable to find a college last fall. The conditions are even more serious today for the potential college girl, while next September it will undoubtedly be worse.

A survey of forty typical women's and coeducational institutions of higher learning, conducted by this department, discloses that more women are attending colleges than ever before in our history. So great is the demand for a higher education that large numbers of women have been denied entrance solely because the institutions are overcrowded.

REASONS FOR INCREASE Various reasons have been advanced to explain why so many women are now attending college or are seeking to enter. Many families, for the first time, do not have to pay for a son's education. The Government does that through the GI Bill. Thus many girls are attending college today who might have been financially unable to go in the past. Moreover, there is an upward trend in college enrollment in this country; this trend applies to women as well as men.

Whatever the reason, women are now flocking to the classrooms and campuses in unprecedented numbers. Coming at a time when the colleges are overcrowded and normally give preference to men, especially veterans, this rush to the colleges has taxed the institutions to capacity. As a result, a greater proportion of women than men are being denied admittance. In fact, women may well become the chief casualty of the post-war educational boom. While the Veterans Administration and other agencies have taken up the cudgels for the men students, few persons have raised their voices in behalf of the women.

Virtually every one of the colleges and universities reached in this study reported that they were forced to turn away more women than at any time in their history. They also indicated that the fall of 1947 will see the overcrowded conditions grow in intensity, with no sign of immediate relief. Many institutions are expanding their facilities, but they do not expect to meet the demands of both the men and women students.

WOMEN'S COLLEGES ARE SMALL

Women's colleges in particular find it difficult to expand to any great extent. Being residence institutions for the most part, they cannot build new dormitories fast enough to accommodate the many students who seek admittance. Moreover, a large proportion of the women's colleges are comparatively small, and feel that it is educationally sound for them to remain that way.

For example, Mount Holyoke's enrollment this year is 1,180, the largest it has ever had; even so, this is barely 100 more than the peacetime registration of 1,094. To accommodate the additional students, the college acquired navy double deckers; now 25 per cent. of the undergraduates are sharing "temporay doubles."

Similarly, the Texas State College for Women finds itself jammed beyond peacetime capacity; 600 girls were turned away this fall. Present indications are not favorable for relieving this condition in 1947 because of the high costs of building materials. To meet the increased demand for admittance a $4,195,000 program is planned, although it will not be available next year. The program will include three dormitories, an addition to an existing one, a central dining unit, two classroom buildings and reconstruction.

Not all colleges are able to expand their facilities. Typical is Wilson College at Chambersburg, Pa., with a peak resident enrollment of 452 girls. This figure represents the pre-war high, as Wilson has always been filled to the capacity of its residence halls. However, Wilson turned away more qualified women students this year than ever before, while applications for 1947 admittance are topping last year's record-breaking figures. Since Wilson is a small college by choice, it does not plan any expansion to meet the increased demands for entrance.

COEDUCATIONAL SCHOOLS JAMMED

Coeducational institutions likewise report an overwhelming number of women applicants. During the war, with the men in the service, many campuses became top-heavy with women. Now, however, that condition has changed and the pendulum has swung in the opposite direction. The coeducational colleges are accepting fewer women than they did during the war or even in normal peace times; the men, veterans as well as recent high school graduates, get the priority.

During the war years large numbers of women enrolled in technical and scientific courses. Although the natural sciences are still popular, a definite trend away from this area and back to the social studies and liberal arts is shown. A majority of the colleges and universities reached in this survey indicate that the women are dropping away from the technical courses that proved so popular a few years ago.

For example, William Jewell College in Missouri reports a decided change in the type of courses chosen by women. The social sciences are now far more popular than in the past. Bryn Mawr finds a new interest in the humanities, especially in the arts. Barnard, likewise, reports a definite trend away from the natural sciences and toward English and foreign language courses. At DePauw University the technical and scientific courses are not as popular as they were during the war.

DIFFERENT COURSES PREFERRED

Smith College, indicative of the trend noted elsewhere, finds a lessening of interest in the sciences and technical courses. The change is most noticeable in courses such as map-making under the department of geology. Only five students are taking it this year while during the war thirty students were in the course, in preparation for immediate employment in Washington.

On the other hand, various institutions suggest that the interest among women students in the scientific courses has not lagged entirely. Lake Erie College finds that its enrollment in mathematics and science courses is still heavier than before 1941. Similarly, Elmira College notes that it has more students taking technical and science courses than before the war, although there is a swing toward courses in the fine arts, political science and sociology.

However, to those students who are completing their high school courses this February or next June, the question of social studies versus natural sciences will not be the paramount one. Their chief concern will be how to get into college rather than what courses they might take after they enter. Many will have to forego the college of their choice and enter whatever institution has available space.

It is certain that the well-known traditional women's colleges will continue to receive more applications than ever in the past—with the result that more candidates will be rejected. Perhaps the educational profession will become aware of the problem of the prospective woman college student and take constructive steps to meet her needs.

IOWA—Requirements

New entrance requirements and a general revision of the entire course in the University of Iowa's College of Engineering will go into effect next June. Freshmen entering after June 1 must present credits in college algebra, trigonometry, English composition, speech and inorganic chemistry. This means that most entering students will need at least one semester of work in a liberal arts or junior college. The requirements will make room in the regular engineering course for an expanded program of social science, and the humanities.

HOLYOKE—Foreign Students

A permanent Foreign Students Committee has been organized at Mount Holyoke College. Aided by nine faculty and administration members, the new group will take over the work of awarding the college's eight full foreign scholarships and of supervising the activities of the foreign students on the campus. The unit is the outgrowth of a Committee on Refugee Students which was organized in 1938, at the start of the Nazi pogroms, to offer aid to students forced out of their own countries.

TUFTS—Scholarships

Forty-two prize scholarships, to be awarded on the basis of nationwide competition, have been established at Tufts College. Applications must be filed before the end of January. Winners will be announced in April.
